

Spiritual Discipline Self-Examination

Self-examination is a spiritual practice that challenges us to take an objective look at our spiritual condition at any given moment. Many times, we find it's really much easier for us to focus on the character flaws of another, rather than paying attention to and seeing our own.

[Jesus asks] <sup>41</sup>"Why do you look at the speck of sawdust in your brother's eye and pay no attention to the plank in your own eye? <sup>42</sup>How can you say to your brother, 'Brother, let me take the speck out of your eye,' when you yourself fail to see the plank in your own eye? You hypocrite, first take the plank out of your eye, and then you will see clearly to remove the speck from your brother's eye."

- Luke 6:41-42

Developing the practice of routine self-examination is one way to live out the challenge of this scripture. John Wesley, the founder of the Methodist movement, practiced this discipline and encouraged others to do the same. He came up with 22 questions that he asked himself daily during his personal devotion time specifically for this purpose (see other side of sheet).

Practical suggestions / challenge:

1. Set aside time to reflect on these questions regularly. What question(s) is God drawing your attention to?
2. Create an accountability relationship with another person where you can openly and honestly discuss the challenges these questions present.
3. Dedicate a couple of minutes in your small groups, meetings, and gatherings to discuss one or two questions each week.
4. Ask God what spiritual discipline, practice, act of service, etc. will help you grow in a particular area of your discipleship?
